AMUSEMENTS.

The attraction to be seen at the Grand Opera House in this city, on next Tuesday evening, Sept. 16th, will be a
play of great heart interest, overflowing
with comedy, entitled, "Reaping the Harvest." The play is said to be a great character study, with laughter, sentiment and pathos. They carry special and elaborate scenery for each of the four acts, with all the mechanical effects and the piece is presented by a company of artists selected for their fitness in their various roles. It resembles no other play, it stands alone.
It tells a story of pure, wholesome
heart interest. Its originality makes it the peer of them all.

To those who saw the play last season
it would seem almost incredulous to say,
that it now outshines its former enviable self. But the fact remains however, that the production is greatly elaborated upon. The most realistic
snow storm scene ever offered,
the picturesque Christmas scene, the grand church scene, the magnificent
Garden scene and the improved Krouk
Tavern scene are this season's added
scenic features, while the great "Reaping the Harvest Quartette" supplies the musical portion of a play, that is about
as near perfection as money and brains
can make it.

The Klaw & Erlanger production of Gen. Lee Wallace's "Ben Hur," will be the opening attraction of the new Grand Opera House, Cincinnati, opening its engagement Monday, Sept. 15th.
Nothing like it has ever been seen in this country before. It marks a distinct epoch in the matter of staging plays. In the first place, because so many apparently insurmountable obstacles have been overcome in a most artistic manner, and because of the generous outlay of money, making it necessary for producers who have any ambition to follow in the footsteps of Klaw & Erlanger, to go down deep into their wallets and spend thousands, if
they wish to reach results at all approaching those achieved by the marvelous presentation of "Ben Hur." Undoubtedly no one of the thousands who have read this most fascinating novel
will miss seeing its transference to the stage, for at the Grand Opera House it is possible for one to come in actual
contact with and hear Ben Hur, Messala, Iras, Simonides, Esther, Amarah, Ar-
riva, Sheikh Ilderin and other strong
and picturesque characters of the book
The Nazarene, while mentioned in the novel, is not seen upon the stage, for
never yet, outside of the "Passion Play"
at Oberammergau, has the Savior been successfully presented or impersonated.
In "Ben Hur" the presence of the Savior is simply, but most effectively,
indicated by a shaft of wonderful white
light, which falls upon the heads of the
lepers who are made whole and restored
to those who love them. It is a most inspiring picture; a revelation, and with its accompanying music never fails to make the deepest impression on all beholders.

Frank Ireland Catches a Fish.

The Evening News published at Port Arthur, Texas, in speaking of a former townsman, says: Mr. Frank Ireland had an ambition to join the Tar-
pon Club, and Sunday afternoon qualified for membership in first-class style
by catching the prize fish of the season
as a result of his first effort in that line.
Mr. Ireland went after his game in the ship's basin, with Capt. Russell as oars-
man. He waited eagerly for the "strike," and after he got it he wished
he didn't have it. During the first five minutes of the contest Ireland called to Russell to "guff him; guff him," but Russell didn't feel like getting out and wading 100 yards in 25 feet of water to do the job. After a warm struggle of about thirty minutes, Mr. Ireland pit
the finishing touches to the contest and landed the fish, which was found to measure full six feet in length and
weighed 113 pounds—the heaviest spec-iman caught here this season. After landing the catch Mr. Ireland said he understood why it was that fishermen
never tried to make more than one tar-
pon at a time, saying as he stood, trembling and all wet: "My knees ache,
my back aches, my back aches, my arms
ache and my head aches." Surely that was enough action for one day. The happy fisherman was taken to a taxid-
er.

SOUFRIERE VOLCANO.

The Sights Resulting From It Are Awe-Inspiring.

The Mountain Is Considerably Lower Than Before September 3 and the Appearance of the Summit Has Changed Wonderfully.

Kingston, Island of St. Vincent, Saturday, Sept. 6.—The sights in the Windward district of this island resulting from the eruption of Soufriere volcano September 3 are very interesting. The Rabacca river, even now, is a stream of fire a quarter of a mile or more wide. The greater part of the Rabacca estate is wrapped in vapor and there are mimic eruptions every where. The river bed is continuously throwing up columns and dense clouds of steam, mud and pebbles. The land has spread farther seaward and is changing considerably the appearance of the district from what it was prior to September 3. This was probably caused by the ejecta that flowed down the slopes filling these about the coast.

Fifty laborers, deceived by the apparent quietude of the volcano, were working within the fire zone Wednesday, at the extreme north of the island, when they suddenly saw evidence of an approaching disturbance of the mountain, were unable to leave the spot before electric flashes and an outpour of gases drove them to their shelter, where they remained, at the base of the mountain, through the terrible night, while forked lightning darted in all directions around them. The men miraculously escaped unhurt and arrived at Kingston yesterday.

The report of Officer of Chateau Belair, who saw the Soufriere from the sea yesterday, made the following report: "The mountain is considerably lower than before September 3, and the appearance of the summit has changed. A large proportion has evidently been blown off and the hill has a much more jagged contour. The neighborhood is altered. New ridges, valleys and a strange ravine have been cut in the west side of the volcano, down to what was formerly the Carib settlement of Haracal, where liquid matter was seen flowing during the afternoon, September 3. The northwestern estates, Petit Bornelle and Sharpes, are covered with from ten to twenty inches of gritty substance. The crops of arrowroot and cocoa are ruined."

During the night of September 4, there was a terrific storm, accompanied by blinding lightning and terrific peals of thunder and a moaning sound from the agitated crater.

THE EMPEROR'S DINNER.

Entertained Over a Hundred Guests in the New Palace at Potsdam.

Berlin, Sept. 9.—Emperor William entertained 110 guests at dinner Monday night in the new palace at Potsdam. His majesty's guests were nearly all visitors who have come to attend the maneuvers and they included Maj. Gens. Henry C. Corbin and Samuel B. M. Young and Brig. Gen. Wood, U. S. A., and their aides; Lieut. Col. J. B. Kerr, military attaché to the United States embassy; Commander Wm. H. Beeler, United States naval attaché; Earl Roberts, commander-in-chief of the forces of Great Britain; Mr. Brodrick, British secretary for war, and the other British who are here for the maneuvers, the visiting German princes and the commanding generals in charge of the maneuvers. The menu of the dinner was exquisite and comprised ten courses. The empress of Germany was present, sitting opposite the emperor, with Earl Roberts on her right.

After dinner the emperor mingled freely with his guests and engaged the American generals in a half hour's conversation.

National Candy Company.

New York, Sept. 9.—The National Candy Co., with an authorized capital stock of $3,000,000, has been incorporated in New Jersey. The incorporators are Henry Semple Ames, J. C. Louis; Frank W. Reid, George B. Goodwin, Edward S. Rogers, Samuel E. Hill, Chicago, and Frank P. McDermott, Jersey City.

Bricklayers Quit Work.

Chicago, Sept. 9.—Three hundred bricklayers employed on sewer work throughout the city here have gone out on a strike. The men, who are paid $9 a day, quit work without notice. Unsatisfactory shifting of men was given as the cause of the walk-out.

Dress Makers' Convention.

New York, Sept. 9.—The first annual convention of the Dressmakers' Protective Association of America was begun here Monday. Miss Elizabeth A. C. White, president of the association, made an address upon the progress and work of the association.

The Sherman Sails From Manila.

Washington, Sept. 9.—The war department is advised that the transport Sherman sailed from Manila September 4 for San Francisco, with 95 sick, 109 casualties and 71 discharged soldiers.

A LIBERAL VICTORY.

Gen. Bertl and His Army Surrender to Insurgent General.

Panama, Sept. 10.—The surrender to the Colombian insurgents of the government general, Morales Bertl, and the troops of his command at Agua Dulce, which has previously been reported and which was generally believed to have taken place, has now been confirmed. This news reached Panama from conservative prisoners of the insurgents who were liberated Monday at San Carlos as a result of the landing there of an expedition from the government fleet of gunboats.

Gen. Bertl, who had been besieged at Agua Dulce by the insurgents since July 28, only surrendered when his cause was hopeless. In the act of surrender the insurgent's general, Benj. Herrera, declares he recognized the abnegation of Gen. Bertl and his men whom he succeeded in dominating because of the superiority of his forces and the quantity of munitions of war of all kinds at his disposal. He promises to hold inviolate the lives and honor of his prisoners and he allows Gen. Bertl to retain his sword as a mark of honor in recognition of his heroic defense of Agua Dulce. The surrendered generals and officers have been paroled at Penonome and Santiago de Veraguas. The act of surrender also sets forth that in consideration of Gen. Herrera's respect for the bravery of the men who withstood his siege, they would not be compelled personally to surrender their arms.

Kingston, Jamaica, Sept. 11.—The German steamer Valencia, from New York August 23, for Cape Haytien and other ports, which arrived here Wednesday from Santa Marta, capital of the department of Magdalena, Colombia, brings news of a victory at Santa Marta by the Colombian revolutionists over the government forces.

Capt. Gronmeyer, of the Valencia, says that last Friday the revolutionists made a desperate attack on the outskirts of Santa Marta. The government troops were overwhelmed and forced to retreat, leaving behind them 100 dead. Immediately after the withdrawal of the government forces the rebels started to destroy the railroad tracks. They derailed several trains at various points, demolishing engines and cars, the latter being chiefly fruit vans. Several lives were lost in these wrecks. Saturday the revolutionists occupied the banana district of Senega, where they continued to wreck the railroad at the same time keeping up their advance toward Santa Marta. When the Valencia sailed from Santa Marta Monday the revolutionists were so near the town that Capt. Gronmeyer could see the flashes of their guns.

There was considerable activity on both sides of the isthmus when the vessel left Colon Monday, and that the revolutionists had already occupied Culebra, on the railroad between Panama and Colon, and were advancing in strength.

CLEARING THE PARK.

Preparations Made for the Dedication of the Nancy Hanks Monument.

Evansville, Ind., Sept. 10.—The work of clearing the park around the Nancy Hanks monument at Lincoln City, Spencer county, was started Tuesday morning, and preparations are under way for the dedication exercises on October 1.

Col. Charles Denby having declined to deliver the oration, Gen. John C. Black, of Chicago, has been chosen, and has accepted. Gen. Black will be accompanied by a large party of prominent people. The reception committee will be composed of Capt. J. W. Lanar, James Gentry and Redmond Grigsby, three old settlers of Spencer county, who were intimate friends of Abraham Lincoln.

Prince Alert Defeated Anaconda. Bethlehem, Pa., Sept. 11.—Thirty thousand people saw Prince Alert defeat Anaconda at the state fair Wednesday in the two fastest consecutive heats ever paced in a half mile track. The second half of the first heat was covered in 1:01. Time 2:05, 2:05½. The race was for a purse of $3,000.

Lawyer-Poet Dead.

New York, Sept. 11.—Wm. Allen Butler, 78, the author and lawyer, died suddenly at his home, in Yonkers, of diabetes. He was an authority on American admiralty law. His best poem is entitled "Nothing to Wear," but is more popularly known as "Miss Flora MacFilmsy."

Employers Violated Agreement.

Portland, Ore., Sept. 11.—The marine engineers of Portland, about 150 in number, have voted to go on strike. They claim that their employers have not lived up to the terms of the agreement by which a strike of two months ago was settled.

Decline Gen. Torrance's Proffered Aid.

New Orleans, Sept. 11.—The confederate veterans of New Orleans refused the proffered aid of Gen. Torrance, commander of the Grand Army of the Republic. They decline with thanks the money to build a home for indigent confederate soldiers.

Soldiers and Sailors Rights League.

Washington, Sept. 10.—Washington Council No. 1, of the Soldiers and Sailors Rights league, an organization whose object it will be to influence legislation in aid of poor and needy ex-soldiers and sailors, was formed here.

The Shamrock III.

London, Sept. 10.—The idea mooted in New York that the Shamrock III. will be a schooner is unfounded. She will be a steel cutter very similar to the recent cup racers in type and general appearance.

MADE A CONFESSION.

Ex-Delegate Murrell, Indicted For Bribery, Implicates Others.

Alleged Boondoggling Operations of the Men in Relation to the Granting of Street Railroad Franchises—Bribery and Perjury.

St. Louis, Sept. 9.—A sensation was caused Monday by the issuance of bench warrants for the arrest of 18 members and former members of the house of delegates on the confession of Delegate J. K. Murrell, who fled to Mexico last spring after being indicted for bribery by the December grand jury in connection with the alleged boondoggling operations of the municipal assembly in relation to the granting of street railroad franchises, and who unexpectedly returned to the city and surrendered. He is now in the custody of Circuit Attorney Folk, and will, it is stated, be granted immunity from punishment for turning state's evidence.

Following are the names of alleged combine members whom bench warrants are issued, charging bribery and perjury in connection with suburban street railway and other legislation:

Ed E. Murrell, John H. Schnettler, Charles F. Kelly, T. E. Albright, Geo. F. Robertson, Louis Drecker, John Helms, Chas. A. Gutke, Adolph Madera, H. A. Faulkner, Julius Lehmann, Edmund Bersch, Otto Schumacher, John A. Sheridan, Charles J. Denny, Wm. Tamblin, J. J. Hannigan and Emilio Hartman.

J. K. Murrell made the following statement for publication Monday:

"I have surrendered unconditionally to the circuit attorney and have made a full confession. I could no longer stand the agony I endured as a fugitive from justice and the wrong done by the parties just as guilty as I, who made me their cat's paw."

"I am not permitted to give the details of the evidence that I have put the circuit attorney in possession of."

"This will all come out in the trials, and I am willing to go on the stand and tell all I know. I held the key to the box in the Lincoln Trust Co. containing $75,000 bribe money to go to the house of delegates upon the passage of the suburban bill."

"This money was put up as the purchase price for the votes of the combine, that price having been agreed upon."

St. Louis, Sept. 10.—When Judge Douglas adjourned court Tuesday night seven of the 19 members of the alleged boodle combine of the house of delegates were still at large and the police and deputy sheriffs are using their best efforts to find them. Developments in the famous case began early and throughout the day came with startling rapidity.

The most important feature of the day's developments was the finding of new indictments against 18 members of the combine. In addition to the charges of bribery and perjury, in connection with the Suburban street railroad deal the members of the alleged combine now rest under additional indictments charging bribery. These were found by the grand jury before which J. K. Murrell testified Monday as to the city lighting scandal of 1900, in which each member of the combine is said to have received $2,500 in payment for his services in securing the passage of the bill. Bonds were fixed at $15,000 for each indictment, making a total of $45,000 necessary to be secured for the release of any one of the accused.

Tuesday afternoon one of the members of the alleged city council combine turned state's evidence and gave to Circuit Attorney Folk full particulars of its organization and operations. The name of this individual is being kept a secret at present.

THE LOCOMOTIVE FIREMEN.

President Roosevelt Elected An Honorary Member.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 9.—President Roosevelt Monday was elected an honorary member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen. He attended the executive session of the order in the morning, walking from the hotel to the auditorium, a distance of a few blocks, escorted by Grand Master Sargent, a committee of the brotherhood and a detachment of Troop B, state guard. The brotherhood first held its executive session, which the president attended. Acting Grand Master Hannahan welcomed the president, stating that his presence at the convention would do great good to organized labor, not only in this country, but in Canada and other countries as well. The president returned his thanks for the welcome and said he was glad to be with the brotherhood.

Shot His Sweetheart.

Omaha, Sept. 9.—Peter Olsen Monday night shot and fatally wounded his sweetheart, Mary Peterson, and made his escape before the police could secure his arrest. The cause of the deed is said to have been jealousy.

The New Monitor Arkansas.

Newport News, Va., Sept. 9.—The new monitor Arkansas, the first of four ships of her class to be completed for the United States navy, has left the shipyard for the navy yard at Portsmouth, where she will be placed in commission.

Woman Suffragist Suicides.

St. Louis, Sept. 9.—Mrs. E. P. Johnson, a woman suffragist, committed suicide at her home here Monday. In sanity which is supposed to have resulted from the bite of a mad dog is believed to have led to the suicide.

IMPRINTED STAMPS.

Hundreds of Tons of Them Returned to Internal Revenue Bureau Office.

Washington, Sept. 11.—Commissioner Yerkes, of the internal revenue bureau, has been compelled to rent an outside building in which to receive and store checks and drafts bearing imprinted stamps now being sent in for redemption. The original act provided for the redemption of these imprinted stamps, limited the time within which they could be presented for redemption to two years from the time they were purchased from the government. Subsequently that time was extended to January 1, 1904. Almost immediately after the act was passed banks and large business houses began sending in their surplus stocks and in a short time the quantity had reached the point where the weight threatened the walls of the rooms and corridors where they were stored, necessitating a prompt removal. Up to this time 194 tons have been destroyed or returned to the senders after cancellation and there are now about 60 tons on hand, with the daily receipts almost equaling the cancellations.

PACKING HOUSE TEAMSTERS.

They Renew Their Fight Against the Stock Yards Concerns.

Chicago, Sept. 11.—Packing house teamsters renewed their fight against the stock yards concerns Wednesday night at a meeting of the union. It is the avowed intention to order a strike of the 600 drivers employed by Swift & Co., and a struggle which may reach the dimensions of the strike of three months ago is said to be one of the probabilities of the near future.

The trouble is the result of the alleged refusal of Swift & Co. to live up to the agreement reached last May establishing a minimum wage of 15 cents an hour.

Chicago, Sept. 11.—All the excavating teamsters in Chicago went on a strike Wednesday morning for an increase in wages to $2 per day. About 600 men, doing the teaming for the principal firms making excavations for new buildings, are involved.

THE GOVERNMENT EXHIBIT.

An Allotment of $800,000 Made By the Board of Officials.

Washington, Sept. 11.—An allotment of the $800,000 appropriated by congress for a government exhibit at the St. Louis Purchase exposition was made Wednesday at a meeting of the board of officials appointed to prepare the exhibit to be made by the several executive departments and bureaus. An understanding also was reached as to the amount of space each of them will be entitled to at the exposition. The board decided to accept the invitation of the exposition management to visit St. Louis the latter part of September when a general conference will be held of the government commission and the various state commissions, beginning September 29, and continuing several days.

CHARGED WITH FRAUD.

Postmaster, Lawyer and Politician Sent to the Pen For Ten Years.

St. Joseph, Mo., Sept. 11.—George M. Shoemaker, for eight years postmaster at Albany, Mo., a prominent lawyer and a politician of state prominence, was sentenced to prison for ten years at Albany Wednesday on a charge of defrauding the county on school fund loans. He secured large sums from the county commissioners on forged notes alleged to have been signed by men prominent in the county and state. This money was used by Shoemaker for eight years, the interest having been regularly paid by him. Shoemaker was postmaster at Albany at the time of his arrest.

A UNIQUE PLAN.

Scheme to Run Theaters in Conjunction With Churches in England.

London, Sept. 11.—The unique plan advanced by the vicar of Goringston of running theaters in conjunction with churches throughout the villages of the United Kingdom has received the support of no less an authority than Joseph Chamberlain, the colonial secretary.

Mr. Chamberlain has written a letter to the vicar in which he sympathizes with this project and says he is always pleased to hear of anything being done to bring light and happiness into the lives of the people.

Unprecedented Price For Coke.

Chicago, Sept. 11.—The price of coke in Chicago has jumped up this week to the unprecedented figure of $12 and $13 a ton. One consequence of the advance is that small foundries are threatened with ruin or at least with being forced to close down, unless prices drop.

Mormon Missionaries.

London, Sept. 11.—The Daily Express publishes a dispatch from its Zurich correspondent saying that for some time past there has been a great increase in the number of Mormon missionaries in both Germany and Switzerland.

The Boer Generals' Tour.

The Hague, Sept. 11.—It is rumored that the Boer generals will very shortly visit the United States. They will tour that country before traveling on the continent, as has been previously arranged.

THE BIG COAL STRIKE.

Gov. Wm. A. Stone Attempts to Bring About a Settlement.

President Mitchell Says the Strike Is Still On and Will Remain So Until It Is Declared Off By the Miners in Convention.

New York, Sept. 10.—Gov. William A. Stone, who came to this city and made an effort during the day to see what could be done towards settling the anthracite coal strike, returned to Harrisburg Tuesday night apparently having been unable to accomplish a settlement. Gov. Stone was accompanied to the city by Attorney General Elkin, Pennsylvania, and Senator Flynn, of Pittsburgh. The three held a conference of several hours' duration with P. A. B. Widener, of Philadelphia, in the offices of the United States steel corporation.

After the conference had lasted an hour Mr. Widener went to see J. Pierpont Morgan at the latter's office and asked him to use his influence to end the strike. Ten minutes later he returned to his fellow conferees and told them that Mr. Morgan had declined to interfere.

Before leaving the city Gov. Stone gave out the following statement:

"Attorney General Elkin, Senator Flynn and myself have been in consultation for several hours to-day with P. A. B. Widener, of Philadelphia, who is a director of the United States steel corporation and associated with Mr. Morgan in many business interests. Mr. Widener is very anxious to see the strike settled and to-day took the matter up with Mr. Morgan. We are doing what we can."

George W. Perkins, speaking for J. P. Morgan & Co., said Tuesday night: "We have no comment to make on Gov. Stone's statement. We have received no official statement as to what occurred at the conference, nor have we heard from Gov. Stone since the conference was closed. Nor have we anything to say on the strike situation."

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Sept. 10.—President John Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers of America, Tuesday night denied in the most emphatic terms that the coal miners strike had been declared off.

"You can quote me in the strongest terms," he said, "that the strike is still on. I have received no proposition from the other side and I have made none to the operators. All I know of any negotiations to end the strike I have read in the newspapers. The strike is still on and will remain so until declared off by the mine workers in convention. It is up to the operators."

WILL NOT ARBITRATE.

John Markle Says There Will Be No Settlement of the Coal Strike.

New York, Sept. 11.—President Oilphant, of the Delaware & Hudson, said that if he was well informed, and he thought that he was, there would be no interference in the anthracite strike on the part of Mr. Morgan. Mr. Oilphant said no outside influences would be needed, and that the strike would continue until the miners are tired of it and returned to work.

John Markle, the head of the firm of G. B. Markle & Co., the largest of the individual coal operators in the anthracite field, Wednesday made a statement respecting the proposed arbitration between the employers and the employees.

"There will be no arbitration," said Mr. Markle, "and no settlement of the coal strike in any way. We have not forgotten our experiences on a former occasion."

THE BRISBIN MINE.

Work Resumed at One of the Largest Collieries of the D. & L. W. Co.

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 11.—Work was resumed Wednesday at the Brisbin, one of the largest collieries belonging to the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Co. No information was given out at the colliery as to the extent of the operations begun there, but it was said that a sufficient number of men was at work to enable the company to mine and ship coal. No disturbance attended the resumption of work. The failure of Gov. Stone's plan to effect a settlement has put a damper on the hopes of those who were confident that the strike would end by September 15.

The Day-McKay Wedding.

Calro, Mich., Sept. 11.—William L. Day, of Canton, O., son of former Secretary of State W. R. Day, was married here Wednesday to Miss Estelle McKay, daughter of Hon. William McKay. The ceremony was quietly performed at the home of the bride, the guests including only the relatives and a few intimate friends of the contracting parties.

National Memorial University.

Mason City, Ia., Sept. 11.—The first of the series of 12 buildings to compose the National Memorial university which is being established here under the direction of the Sons of Veterans and other patriotic societies of the country, was opened Wednesday.

The Sherman Arrives at Nagasaki.

Washington, Sept. 11.—The war department is informed of the arrival of the transport Sherman at Nagasaki on her way to Manila, and also of the arrival of the transport Hancock at Nagasaki on her way to San Francisco.

CURE FOR ASTHMA.

Free Sample Packages Will Be Given to All Sufferers.

Sufferers from Asthma, Hay Fever or Bronchitis will be interested to learn that Dr. R. Schiffmann's "Asthma Cure" instantly relieves the most violent attack, insures comfortable sleep, and has effected cures in thousands of cases that had previously tried every other remedy in vain. No waiting for results. Its action is immediate, direct and certain. So firm is his confidence that the doctor requests this paper to announce that he has sent to druggists of this town, as well as to all other druggists in this country, sample packages of his remedy which will be given free to sufferers of above complaints, who apply promptly, thus offering an opportunity to such as have not yet tried the remedy to make a personal test which will convince the most skeptical.

Persons failing for any reason to receive a sample package from their druggist will receive one free by mail by sending name and address (enclosing 2 cent stamp for postage) to Dr. R. Schiffmann, Box 814, St. Paul, Minn.

A MYSTERY.

"I need hardly say there is no 'must' about it. I am an officer of the law, and I am anxious to find the man. I am sure you will tell me everything which might help me, and I don't ask to know more."

She considered it for a moment, and then took counsel of frankness. "He admitted it because I asked him."

Griffin smiled, and then explained the smile.

"Pardon me," he said. "I was thinking that no one but a woman would ever have thought of doing such a thing as that. I fancy you surprised the admission out of him."

"No, I do not think I did. He admitted the fact very willingly, though he would not admit that it was wrong."

"Ah; that helps more than you might imagine. They have all been looking for a seasoned criminal, you know."

"He wasn't that," she said, with an air of conviction. "Apart from this one great wrong which he had done, he seemed to be a gentleman. It may seem incredible to you, but he fairly insisted upon my writing to Mr. Galbraith."

Griffin smiled again and nodded reassuringly. What she was telling him fitted in admirably with the only tenable theory he had formed; that the robber was no criminal; that he was only a monomaniac on the social side.

"And when he did that he doubtless assured you that he would consider himself bound in honor not to take advantage of your frankness?"

"He did just that. How did you know?" she asked.

"I merely inferred it. And his parole was to expire at St. Louis?"

"It was—it did."

Griffin rose and found his hat.

"I am greatly obliged to you, Miss Farnham. I know you haven't found it easy to speak of this to a stranger."

While the identity of the man is still a mystery, you have helped more than you know. Good morning."

Griffin left the house, but instead of taking the street, he turned aside to stroll aimlessly along the lake shore, giving a new theory time to grow a little more definite. As has been said, his trade of man-catcher had come to be a passion with him, and he had genius where others labored only with talent. When the new theory had taken shape, it slipped into musing speech.

"She can't account for his little vagary, but I can. He simply fell in love with her at first sight, and because he was in love with her he made her do that which she knew to be right, at whatever cost to himself. That being the case, he is as sure to turn up here sooner or later as the sun is sure to rise to-morrow morning. Better than that, he may be here now. I'll camp down and study my environment for awhile. It's a pretty place, and I'll call it my vacation."

In a week's time Mr. Thomas Griffin had learned more about Wabaska than the ordinary summer visitor would have learned in a year's residence. He knew Jasper Grierson and his ambitions, and Jasper Grierson's daughter and hers. He knew all about the social teapot tempest, and could identify the adherents of each of the factions. He knew that Andrew Galbraith was a guest at the summer hotel on the point, and was soon able to draw his own conclusions touching the growing intimacy between Grierson and the New Orleans banker. The drawing of these conclusions cost the detective a trip to the pine-land region in the northern part of the state, and the information he sought and obtained had no bearing upon the bank robbery. Jasper Grierson held the reversion of some worthless pine land which he was trying to sell Andrew Galbraith; that was all.

But in another field Griffin sent his arrows of investigation nearer the target, and that without knowing it. He came to know all about the Raymers, the iron works company, and the reorganization of the same with one Kenneth Griswold for a partner. Probing a bit deeper into this, more to account for the oddity of a man like Griswold interesting himself in a business affair than for any other reason, the detective unearthed a thing which the prime movers in it were not braving abroad. Jasper Grierson had all but succeeded in smashing young Raymer's enterprise; would have smashed it but for Griswold's intervention. That was fact the first. And fact the second was this: That Jasper Grierson repulsed was not Jasper Grierson defeated. Having failed to smash Raymer, he was now trying to obliterate both Raymer and the new partner. To this end he was fashioning two weapons. The railway and all other work controlled by Grierson and those to whom he dictated was withdrawn from the reorganized iron works company. That was the weapon legal; the other was more deadly. In the height of the Raymer-Griswold prosperity a deputation of workmen had waited upon the partners with demands which could not be met. And the alternative was a strike.

A Knave of Conscience

By FRANCIS LYNDE.

CHAPTER XIX.—CONTINUED.

Griffin strolled listlessly with the crowd, and presently found himself in front of the new playhouse. It was early, but the "first-nighters" were already thronging the vestibule. He stood aside to look on, honestly wishing he could rid himself of the Bayou bank mystery long enough to go in and enjoy himself with the pleasers.

Now it chanced that in stepping back out of the sidewalk through he got in the way of the carriage contingent, and a moment later a voice at his elbow said:

"Excuse me; will you let the ladies alight?"

Griffin gave place, and saw a young man with a clean-cut, eager face hand two young women from the carriage. They were followed by an elderly gentleman with eye-glasses; and on the sidewalk the group fell into pairs. Griffin could not well help hearing the colloquy.

"I think the others will be here in a few minutes, doctor. Shall we wait and go in with them?"

Thus spoke the young man with the clean-cut face; and at the older man's negative he spoke again.

"Just as you please. If you will take Miss Raymer and let me take Miss Farnham, that will divide us equally. The seats are all near together, but I couldn't get them all in the same row."

Griffin stared hard at the speaker's companion as the party came moved away.

"So that is Miss Charlotte Farnham, and my last chance," he mused, turning back toward the hotel.

"There is one grain of comfort in it for me; if her face doesn't belie her, she will tell me the truth. By Jove! but that young lawyer, or whatever he is, has an eye for good looks. I've never seen her equal in all my ups and downs, and that's saying a good deal."

So he went his way to the St. James and presently to bed, without so much as suspecting that he had actually touched elbows with the man whose identity he was vainly trying to establish.

CHAPTER XX.

It was the early morning of a flawless northern summer's day, and the lake sparkled like a sheet of hammered silver under the windows of the Farnham sitting-room. The shades had been drawn when Griffin entered, but he had taken the liberty to run them up before Miss Farnham came in. And since he was finding it necessary to read much between the lines of her guarded answers to his questions, he did not regret the precaution.

"You say he admitted his guilt to you, Miss Farnham, before the boat reached St. Louis?"

"Yes."

"May I ask how he came to do that?"

"I must answer that?" she faltered.

one person with whom he could discuss it with helpful freedom.

Do what he might he could not bring himself to the point of talking Charlotte into his confidence in the matter of the book. Though it was wholly undefined in his own mind, the barrier was the one which had been built on the voyage up the river. The more he saw of Charlotte, and the more his love for her grew and throve, the less possible it became to look forward to a day when he might hope to tell her all with a fair probability of winning her approval of the thing he had done.

But with Margery no such difficulty existed. Her sympathy was always quick and intuitive, and she seemed to have the gift of saying instinctively the thing he craved most; the thing he might have suggested if she were not always beforehand with him. He was not so besotted as to believe that he had discovered in her that other half of the artist's always incomplete circle; the one person in the world who can fully understand him. On the contrary, in his soberer moments he thought he knew her for what she was. But these disillusion grew less frequent as visits to Mercedes became more frequent, and in time they began to disappear altogether. For Mistress Margery was wise in her generation, knowing many things well and the heart of a man better than any.

But about the book, which was to settle once for all the vexed question of the rights of man, they did not always agree. As first conceived, the story was merely a vehicle loaded to overflowing with the socialistic protests of its author. But in the rewriting a new plot had been substituted; suggested, nay, even outlined, by Mistress Margery herself; and on the keel thus laid the venture built itself into something more like a novel and less like a preachment. Griswold saw the growth of it under his hand; saw the far-reaching possibilities of it; saw also that it was departing, despite his most strenuous efforts, from the course which he had picked out on the chart of the former endeavor. In other words, the new book bade fair to grow into something which the publishers might accept and the public might buy and read, but of the rights of man there was coming to be less and less as the work progressed.

Being first of all an enthusiast, Griswold dug deeply for the cause of

"How many times must we go back to the original question. You must choose between saying it all and having nobody read it and saying a little and having everybody read it. I'm not saying anything against your theory—it's lovely. But unless you make it a good story, first, last and all the time, you will never get a hearing."

"Then I may as well give it up," Griswold confessed. "If I may not preach a little I have no excuse for saying anything at all."

"Oh, you may preach a little. But in this particular instance you must make Rathbone stern and inflexible, cruel, if need be. You needn't be afraid of its effect upon the girl. She will condone anything he may have to do—it's a way girls have."

He looked at her narrowly and then the film of abstraction came between.

"I wonder if you really mean that? Are women so ready to condone?" Her laugh was mocking. "You make me blush for you," she said. "Isn't an author supposed to know more about us than we know about ourselves?"

"I don't know about the supposition. But the man who knows the heart of one woman—"

She stopped him with a little gesture of impatience.

"Tell me what it is you don't know and I'll turn traitor and betray my sex."

At that his gaze went beyond her again and he said: "I wonder if you would?"

"Try me and see."

He hesitated a moment, and then plunged into the depths of it.

"Then tell me this: If Rathbone should go on and do all the hard things you say his character calls for—things which Priscilla believes to be wrong—would she put her conscience aside and stand with him?"

Miss Grierson's reply was brief and very much to the point.

"A woman in love has no conscience. The man she loves has to furnish enough of that commodity for two."

Griswold winced. "What a merciless little cynic you are," he declared.

"It is true, and when you are saying true things where is the use of taking the roundabout way. I don't say the woman wouldn't be hurt. She would be, and the hurt might turn up afterward in a way to make the man sorry. But that has nothing to do with the fact that a woman's conscience can't hold its own against her love."

Griswold shook his head in deprecation. "I don't like to believe that. I'd like to believe that a man may go on making a good woman's conscience the touchstone by which his own conceptions of right and wrong may be corrected."

Margery laughed lightly. "And so you may, if you don't first go about to make the woman love you. But you can't eat your cake and have it too."

Griswold folded his manuscript and put it back in the envelope. Then he said what was in his mind.

"These are generalities, Margery. Would you be that loyal to the man you loved?"

Miss Grierson's shrug was barely perceptible.

"I like that," she said. "That is certainly personal enough." And then: "You mustn't endow me with a conscience."

"Why?"

"Because I think it was denied me in the general distribution of things good but unhappy. I am afraid the question I ask oftentimes is whether I want the thing hard enough to try to get it."

"As if anyone would believe that of you!" said Griswold, at parting.

But afterward, when he came to think of it, the thin edge of belief found a crevice and would not be denied its entrance therein.

He Meant Well.

I was laid up in the cabin of a North Carolina mountaineer with a sprained ankle, and though he would willingly have provided me with the best, the fare consisted of bones, fried squirrel and corn coffee every meal.

On the fifth day I must have felt slip some sign that things were growing monotonous, for he looked over at me and said:

"Stranger, I reckoned to make a change in this yer fodder, but it didn't come about."

"Oh, the fodder is all right," I replied.

"But I don't skassly think it is, and I was gwine to make a change. Sorry to say I couldn't do it, but the dratted woodchuck got clean away!"—Philadelphia Press.

A Strange Hobby.

The principal hobby of the ex-queen regent of Spain is collecting of playing cards. She possesses a large number of curious packs, many of which have no little historical interest. One set, made of ivory, is believed to have belonged to Prince Eugene, who fought with the great Duke of Marlborough, and to have accompanied him in all his campaigns. Queen Christina also owns some exceedingly rare cards of Egyptian, Arabian, French and Spanish manufacture.—N. Y. Sun.

Wise Precaution.

"It is always advisable to know what business a man is in when he proposes marriage to you," said the blond.

"Why so?" asked the brunette.

"A man once gave me an engagement ring and, of course, I was a little curious to know what it had cost."

"Naturally."

"Well, I went to a jeweler's to inquire what was the value, and I found the man who gave me the token behind the counter."—Cleveland Statesman.

"YOU HAVE HELPED MORE THAN YOU KNOW."

all this, and thought he found it in his new relation as an employer of labor. At first he had told himself that he would be a silent partner in the iron works, leaving all the activities to the practical Raymer; but he soon found this blankly impossible. And with personal interest and the shifting point of view came a change, gradual and almost insensible, in his attitude toward mankind in general and toward the workers in particular. So it came about that while he was writing a book, designed to overturn the existing social order, he was drifting slowly but surely into the ranks of the oppressors.

The first open confession of this change of creed came when the threat of a strike rose storm-cloud like on the iron works horizon. Raymer was for temporizing with the men, and for yielding something if need be; but this Griswold fought stoutly, growing more stubborn as the threatening cloud increased in size. If the men could not see for themselves what was for their best interests, they must be made to see. But in reality it was Margery who was responsible for the major changes in the book. Caring nothing at all for the ethical question involved, she cared a great deal for the success of the author, and she was shrewd enough to arrive quickly at a double conclusion; that Griswold was well able to write a successful book; and that, left to himself, he would assuredly spoil it with his theories. So she labored faithfully to keep him in a broader road and not without a goodly measure of success.

"But, Margery,"—(they were well past the "Mr." and "Miss" by this time)—"I can't do that," he said one morning when they had been reworking the plot through one of the cozy sitting-room talks.

"Don't you see it begs the entire question of labor and capital?"

"I see that you can't help doing it unless you are deliberately false to your art," retorted the literary oracle.

"You have put these people on the stage, giving them certain characters, and they must go on and do the things that are consistent."

"Not if the consistent things are going to make the entire picture out of drawing."

She laughed. "How impossible a man you be," she rejoined, sweetly.

THE HOME GOLD CURE.

An Ingenious Treatment by which Drunkards are Being Cured Daily in Spite of Themselves.

No Noxious Doses. No Weakening of the Nerves. A Pleasant and Positive Cure for the Liquor Habit.

It is now generally known and understood that Drunkenness is a disease and not weakness. A body filled with poison, and nerves completely shattered by periodical or constant use of intoxicating liquors, requires an antidote capable of neutralizing and eradicating the poison, and destroying the craving for intoxicants. Sufferers may now cure themselves at home without publicity or loss of time from business by this wonderful "HOME GOLD CURE" which has been perfected after many years of close study and treatment of inebriates. The faithful use according to directions of this wonderful discovery is positively guaranteed to cure the most obstinate case, no matter how hard a drinker. Our records show the marvelous transformation of thousands of drunkards into sober, industrious and upright men.

WIVES CURE YOUR HUSBANDS! CHILDREN CURE YOUR FATHERS!

This remedy is in no sense a nostrum but a specific for this disease only, and is so scientifically devised and prepared that it is thoroughly soluble and pleasant to taste, so that it can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it. Thousands of Drunkards have cured themselves with this priceless remedy, and as many more have been cured and made temperate men by having the "CURE" administered by loving friends and relatives without their knowledge in coffee or tea, and believe today that they discontinued drinking of their own free will. DO NOT WAIT. Do not be deluded by apparent and misleading "improvement." Drive out the disease at once and for all time. Rev. Geo. O. Barnes

Rev. Geo. O. Barnes has been holding services each night this week at the Odd Fellows' Hall. His meetings, which have been most interesting, have not been largely attended, though the house has been comfortably filled at several of the meetings.

Brother Barnes is on the last quarter stretch of a century run, having passed his 75th year, and is as a consequence, quite feeble. He has done away with the singing features of his service, which was so much enjoyed on his previous visits. He delivers his sermons in a sitting position.

Services will be held to-night, to-morrow night and on Sunday and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Brother Barnes was at one time one of the most noted pulpit evangelists in the country and his sermons were marvels of eloquence. He is now a follower of Dowie, the Illinois evangelist, who claims to represent Elijah, of prophet days of the religion of long ago.

Dr. John D. Woods, in the Bowling Green Evening Times, says that no more wonderfully gifted man in pulpit utterance and eloquence ever graced a Kentucky pulpit than George O. Barnes, but his drifting into the realms of the insoluble mysteries of theology has carried him away from many of his old admirers who have set with thrilling interest under the wonderful sermons he was wont to deliver before he began to deal in the mystical theories he gradually drifted into. Of striking personality, with a charm of dramatic power and brilliancy of thought and eloquence of tongue, he has thrilled more audiences in Kentucky than any man in its pulpit history.

The ladies of Bourbon and surrounding counties are invited to call and inspect my Fall styles in Millinery. I have nothing but the very latest things. We are right up-to-date this season in styles and designs. My stock is large and most complete. Give me a call.

A WOMAN.

You say that you are but a woman—
Who are so very wonderful to me.
You tell me there is little you can do,
Little indeed that all the world can see.
There are no battles on the open plain
That you can fight, as I, a man, can fight;
But you shall say your life is lived in vain
If all my darkened days you have kept light?
Oh, little woman-heart, be glad, be glad
That you are what God made you! Well
I know
How you have nerved me when the day was
sad,
And made me better—yes, and kept me
so!
Be very glad that you, in your white place,
Your little home, with folded hands can
be
A silent influence to whose source I trace
The little good there ever was in me.
To be a woman! Is there any more
That you have need to be from day to day?
How wonderful to have your heart, your
store,
Of purity and goodness, and to say:
"One that I love is nobler since I came."
One that loves me is better for my sake."
A woman! Oh, there is no greater name
That ever on the mortal tongue shall wake!
—Charles Hanson Towne, in Woman's Home Companion.

The Blush of Ma-Tha-Nee

IT WAS night and the hour was late,
but Mr. Beauville paid no attention to the fact that the Antilles, grows
a plant which bears a huge spike of crimson flowers. Far up on the steep slopes
of that mountain gorge which the Spaniards named Boca d'Agua you
may see these floral splendors blazing
out here and there against the deep greens of the tropical foliage. The flower is a miracle of beauty, seen in its native surroundings, and the Arawak aborigines had a miraculous legend of its origin. The Arawaks of Jamaica are now an extinct race, but

AND WITH THAT CRY SHE LEAPED OUT OVER THE BRINK OF THE CLIFF.

the legend of the Ma-tha-nee (which name means "The Mountain's Pride")
still lives.

Ma-tha-nee was the loveliest maiden
of Namayca ("the Land of Many Streams," in the Arawak tongue).
When she walked the mountain paths
it was as if a young goddess had come down to sport with mortals. The delicate copper brown of her skin flushed
into a rich red whenever a man looked at her; her dark lashes hid and showed
her eyes like stars behind the clouds
at night; her jet black hair fell about her like a soft, glossy mantle. All this was seen by a young casique named Tlutoo, and his heart melted for love
of Ma-tha-nee. Quaco, the ugly priest,
had also set his heart upon Ma-tha-nee,
and he tried to persuade her father,
that she should become one of the
handmaids of the temple to bring water
from the river, sweep the smooth clay
floor, weave checkered mats, and be
always at the beck and call of Quaco.
Ma-tha-nee's father thought long
about the matter, and decided to give
her in marriage to the young casique
whose arrows were the swiftest and
surest in all the mountains of Namayca
and his canoe larger and better manned than any other upon the shores
of the island.

So they made a great marriage feast
of corn, agouti's flesh and fish, both
from the sea and from the great river
that ran through the valley below
their village, which is the valley called by the Spaniards Boca d'Agua. Tlutoo,
having sacrificed to the gods and feast-
ed, sat in the circle of the chiefs,
smoking the great stone pipe, until
near sundown, Quaco being also in the circle.

And about sundown the bridegroom
suddenly cried: "My head is as if I had drunk the juice of manioc."

Upon this Ma-tha-nee began to wail,
saying, "They have poisoned my bridegroom," for she mistrusted Quaco. But her father and the other chiefs quieted
her, telling her that Tlutoo had only smoked tobacco too much from the great pipe.

Nevertheless, Tlutoo died before the sun had well set, and the marriage feast
was turned to mourning. They laid his body upon a new mat in the house of
the god, before the great stone image,
and all his tribe wept aloud until far into the night. But long after all the others were wearied and had fallen

asleep, Ma-tha-nee remained, cowering
upon the clay floor of the temple and weeping for Tlutoo, until even she was wearied and fell asleep.

She had slept until it was almost the time of sunrise when she heard a voice
that seemed to come from the mouth of the great stone image saying, "Ma-
tha-nee, go not from this house."

Now, Ma-tha-nee feared the temple,
because of Quaco, the priest, and she
only staid in it through that night because she thought that Tlutoo's dead body made it safe. So when she heard
the voice she trembled and listened.

Again the voice said: "Ma-tha-nee,
go not from this house. Thou shalt be the bride of the gods."

At that she screamed aloud: "Tlutoo
save me!"

But as the dead body of Tlutoo did
not hear her cry, she sprang up from the floor of the temple. And immediately the stone image of the god fell down and broke, and Quaco, who had hidden himself in it, rushed out upon Ma-tha-nee. She, finding that the spirit of her bridegroom was not near
his body—or he would have answered
her cry—turned and ran toward the sun, which was just rising over the edge of the cliff. (For the people of her tribe believed that spirits of great chiefs inhabited the sun.)

And as Ma-tha-nee ran, crying:
"Tlutoo, save me!" Quaco ran after her, arousing all the village with a cry
that the woman had broken the image
of his god and was trying to escape
punishment.

But she ran on until she came to the edge of the cliff, where she faced the rising sun, and, lifting up both her
hands, as one who prays to the heavenly gods, cried aloud once more: "Tlutoo, save me!" And with that cry she
leaped out over the brink of the cliff.

Presently Quaco and the people of the village reached the place from which she had leaped, and they looked down to see where Ma-tha-nee had been dashed to pieces. Far down they saw what seemed a great splash of
blood, and when they went down,
clambering fearfully, and looked more
closely, behold! it was a new and altogether strange crimson flower, more
splendid than any kind of flower they had ever seen.

AT THE SEASHORE.

How Two Stout Old Ladies Had a
Surf Bath Without Going
Into the Water.

"Individuality and personal vanity
shrink in the presence of the great
ocean," remarked a Detroit clergy-
man's wife, who had just returned from the seashore, relates the Detroit Free Press, "and the performance of average humanity at a large
bathing resort are intensely interesting. People forget themselves and do all sorts of funny things. Sitting on the beach at Ocean Grove the other day watching the bathers, I saw two stout ladies in bathing suits
come trotting down near the water;
they were both quite elderly—nearly 80 I should say—and I wondered that they felt strong enough to go into the surf unattended.

But, bless you, the two dear old
bodies—as much like two elderly infants as anything else—had no idea of battling with the waves. They sat down at the ocean's edge and rested a bit. How droll they looked in the funny little skirts, blouses and
straw hats of the sea shore costume.
One of them carried a large glass
fruit jar, and it occurred to my idly
curious mind that she was going to put it full of sea sand to carry home
in her trunk. But, no. In a few minutes she got up, trotted to the sea, filled the jar with water, trotted
back, and emptied it over the head
of the other lady, who gasped and
sputtered, but said it was delightful.
The shower bath, of course, ran
down over her shoulders, wetting her thoroughly.

"This process was repeated three times; then the nice old lady who
had had her hand-made ocean bath
arose and the other sat down to enjoy her ocean dip, conveyed to her in the same way. She, too, seemed to enjoy the salt water hugely. After it was all over, they trotted back together to the bath house, to get
dressed in time for luncheon."

COLLEGE FOR WOMEN.

Develops Them Physically as Well
as Mentally in These Modern Times.

With the increased study of the subject of physical culture there has come
to women, as well as to men, a greater
respect for a sound body and much
clearer knowledge as to how far muscular strength is to be regarded as an indication of robust health. There has been a mad rush into the realm of physical development. Fifteen years ago it was the gymnasium and its apparatus which attracted the greatest attention, says Woman's Home Companion. Men exercised various muscles, and sometimes developed themselves into startling freaks. Then came a reaction in favor of outdoor
sports, and it is to this reaction that much good may be attributed. The process was similar with the physical development of girls, and to-day the
planning of both is for a more satisfactory effect. Fresh air, moderation,
pleasure and interest are fundamental
alike for men and women in the promotion of health through physical development. One cannot but be impressed with the greater proportion of
fine, healthy girls and women now
meets at school and college. The day
of the pale, fragile girl, subject to faints, who was once the type, has given place to the reign of the outdoor beauty, whose attraction comes from health and the high spirits incident to its enjoyment. The evolution of such women can easily be measured
from the methods of sport now in
vogue in many of our large colleges
for women.

WHAT THE FISH SAID.

Charlie Was Right on the Spot When Conundrums Were to Be Answered.

Five-year-old Charlie developed a great fondness for conundrums and
puzzles, anything that required serious thought and discovery, and he displayed a startling astuteness in thinking out original answers to well-known queries. He was continually astounding his mother and his family
by the oddity and quaintness of his remarks, relates an exchange.

Especially was he fond of having stories told him, and every night at bedtime the penance of going to bed
was compensated for by an original story, a feat that sorely taxed the imagination of his mother. One night the story was about a fishing
expedition with imaginary accessories
to make it interesting. In the midst
of the story the telephone bell rang,
making a little interruption. The story was resumed at the point where
the alluring bait was cast into the water, and two little fishes swam up
to look at it and concluded that it was worth trying. One of them
snapped at it, and found that it was different from what he expected it
to be.

"And what do you suppose he
said to the other fish, who was looking at him?"
"I know," cried Charlie. "He said:
'Line is busy, call again!'"

Cream Toast.

Prepare slices of dry toast; bring
one quart rich milk to a boil; thicken
with four tablespoonsful flour blended
with a little cold milk; cook till smooth
and of the consistency of cream; turn
into a sauce dish; serve a liberal allowance with each slice of toast.—
Ladies' World, New York.

ing to talk for six months now.
Henpekt—Well, it will take him
longer than that to learn not to.—

ILLINOIS THE BICYCLE STATE.

Manufactures More of the Two-Wheeled Silent Steeds Than Any
Other State of the Union.

Illinois is the leading state of the union so far as relates to the manufacture of bicycles, according to a bulletin
issued by the census office. Illinois
manufactured 28.1 per cent. of the total
product for 1900, the number of establishments being 60 and the amount of capital invested $7,694,658. Ohio is the nearest competitor to Illinois, the percentage of the product manufactured
in that state being 12.8. The number of establishments in the Buckeye state is 34 and the capital invested is $4,554,576. New York is third on the list, having manufactured 19
per cent. of the product. The number of establishments in the Empire
state is 66 and the capital invested $3-328,943. Connecticut, which holds the fourth place, manufactures 11.5 per cent. of the products in its 24 establishments. The Nutmeg state has $4,215-399 invested in this industry. In the United States there are 312 bicycle establishments with a capital of $24,783-
659, and the product is valued at $31-915,908.

STUDYING SUGAR PLANTS.

Dr. Wiley of Agricultural Department, Making Some Interesting Experiments.

Dr. Wiley, chemist of the agricultural department, is making some interesting experiments in sugar producing
plants on the farm in the Potomac bottoms, and which are operated by the department. Sugar cane, sorghum,
sugar beets, Rocky Ford muskmelons
and sugar corn—all sugar producing
plants—have been planted side by side,
and Dr. Wiley finds they each flourish with equal vigor in this climate. This is in itself a matter of much surprise
to scientists, as some of the plants
were thought to flourish best in hot
climates or near the Atlantic slope,
while other sugar producing plants
were thought to grow only in cold countries. Dr. Wiley's experiment is not so much to find their adaptability to a temperate climate as to determine the sugar producing qualities of these products and their relative value. For this purpose the plants give every evidence of perfect development in the District of Columbia.

BLOW TO SUBMARINE BOATS.

Adverse Opinion from Naval Officers
May Cut Off Appropriation for Further Experiment.

Three important naval officers took
such strong grounds against submarine
torpedo boats in their present stage of development before the senate naval
committee that it is possible no appropriation will be made at this session
for the purchase of craft of this type.
Rear Admiral Bowles thought it inadvisable to experiment further with the Holland boat, while Admiral Bradford quoted Admiral von Tirpitz, head of the German navy, as saying: "I am
so sure that they are of no value that I refuse to waste any more time in experimenting with them." Capt. Sigbee expressed the opinion that it would be well to go slow for the present and not purchase 30 or 40 submarine boats.

St. Louis Relieved.

The St. Louis exposition management must enter into a contract not
to open the fair on Sundays before the government will hand over any more funds. Provision in the appropriation bill makes this imperative. St. Louis
should be thankful, says the Chicago Inter Ocean, that the government has decided the matter for her.

"Something New Under The Sun."

All doctors have tried to cure
CATARRH by the use of powders, acid
gases, inhalers and drugs in paste form.
Their powders dry up the mucous membranes causing them to crack open
and bleed. The powerful acids used in the inhalers have entirely eaten away
the same membranes that their makers
have aimed to cure. While pastes and ointments cannot reach the disease. An old and experienced practitioner who
has for many years made a close study
and specialty of the treatment of CATARRH, has at last perfected a Treatment which when faithfully used,
not only relieves at once, but permanently cures CATARRH by removing the cause, stopping the discharges, and curing all inflammation. It is the only remedy known to science that actually reaches the affected parts. This wonderful remedy is known as "SNUF-FLES" the GUARANTEED CATARRH CURE and is sold at the extremely
low price of One Dollar, each package
containing internal and external medicine sufficient for a full month's treatment and everything necessary to its perfect use.

"SNUFFLES" is the only perfect
CATARRH CURE ever made and is now recognized as the only safe and
is also wonderfully quick to relieve HAY FEVER or COLD IN THE HEAD.
CATARRH when neglected often
leads to CONSUMPTION — "SNUF-FLES" will save you if you use it at once. It is no ordinary remedy, but a complete treatment which is positively guaranteed to cure CATARRH in any form or stage if used according to the
directions which accompany each package. Don't delay but send for it at once and write full particulars as to your condition and you will receive special advice from the discoverer of this wonderful remedy regarding your case without cost to you beyond the regular price of "SNUF-

BLUNDERING COURTESY.

The Obliging Young Man Had Hair on His Head and Could Spare His Hat.

Excessive kindness of heart, when allied to a blundering courtesy, is occasionally productive of an amusing incident. Of such is the following: A president in recent times of one of our royal colleges was noted for the possession of a trim little yacht, which he was fond of sailing in one of the reaches of the River Thames, says the Can-did Friend. One day the president had the misfortune to capsize his craft, with the consequent result of complete immersion. He was immediately assisted ashore and a change of clothing provided at an adjacent bathhouse. This, however, did not include a hat of any description. The president, who is an old man and correspondingly bald, stood shivering, his scant hair uncomfortably stirred by the breeze. His plight was observed with respectful compassion by one of the students of the college who had witnessed the catastrophe, and offered his own headgear. The president, however, seemed reluctant to accept it, saying: "If I take yours, what will you go?" "Oh, sir," said the student, "it doesn't matter for me, I've got hair on my head." This statement was accepted as final by the president, together with the cap, and he laughed heartily at what, after all, was not wholly a one-sided joke, for the consternation of the student may be better imagined than described.

THEIR GENERAL ORDERS.

A Raw Recruit Who Had His Instructions Committed Letter Perfect.

A Washington boy, son of a well-known official of the District government, is home for a brief visit from his station at Columbus Barracks, Ohio, he being a second lieutenant in the United States army. A large number of recruits are being "licked into shape" at Columbus Barracks, and the young officer has a store of amusing anecdotes relating to the "rookies," says the Washington Star.

One of the recruits was walking past as a sentinel when he was approached by the officer of the day, and asked to repeat his instructions. The reply was:

"Walk this post, keeping always on the alert, and don't let any disreputable people in, except officers' wives and families."

Another sentinel, in reciting his instructions, said:

"I must not let any children go outside the post alone, unless accompanied by their mothers or nurses."

Couldn't Be Square.

"Of course," said the promoter of the get-rich-quick company, "we can only give the prospective earnings in round numbers."

"Ah, yes," replied the victim, "because they couldn't possibly be square."—Philadelphia Press.

PUZZLE PICTURE

"I WILL NOT ALLOW HIM TO PASS." WHO?

A REMARKABLE BOB CAT.

Draws the Water and Catches the Poultry for His Owner's Camp Up in Maine.

Asa Wing is the owner of a tame bob cat which is endowed with more intelligence than is given to most cats. This cat, says the New York Sun, is two years old and has been allowed to run at large ever since Wing pulled him from the side of his dead mother, whom he shot on the shores of Middle Chain lake in June, 1900.

At that time the kitten was no more than a shapeless mass of soft fur and sharp claws. Wing fed him on cow's milk and inside of a month he was able to kill Wing's entire flock of hens, thereby cutting off his owner's supply of fresh eggs. But the men who employed Wing to do their paddling and cooking never suffered for fresh poultry, because as soon as the hens were gone the bob cat went into the woods and caught more partridges than could be eaten in camp, keeping up the supply all through the year. Though it is illegal to shoot partridges between January and September, the law does not apply to cats, and when a man has dead partridges placed upon his doorstep every morning, Wing thinks it is his duty to see that the food is not wasted.

And as the bob cat waxed strong with age he increased in wisdom, doing many things that surprised his owner and several that made him very angry. The climax came during the drought of last fall, when the water in the lake became warm and full of sediment, compelling Wing to dig a well for himself and his guests.

As it would take two days to go to the village and get a pump, Wing saved time and expense by putting a well sweep above the hole in the ground and drawing the water with a log bucket attached to the sweep. No sooner had he put the swinging pole in place than the bob cat perched on its top and had great sport in scampering from the end above the well to the end on the ground the cat's weight causing the pole to rise and fall like a see-saw. Wing tried to drive his pet away, but could not do so, because as soon as he went to the well the cat would run to the farther end of the pole, placing itself beyond reach and raising the filled bucket to the surface ready to be poured out.

Wing is not an educated man, but he knows a good thing when he sees it. No sooner had he seen that the cat could draw water for fun than he made up his mind that the animal should draw water as a business. Riggng a bail to the edge of the watering trough and placing a hook on the side of the well bucket, he went out to put his idea into practice. The cat was hanging from the end of the pole over the well and the filled bucket was deep down in the water. Wing clapped his hands and made a rush for the cat.

The cat at once took the sound as a signal for sport. He ran to the outer end of the pole, bringing up the filled bucket, which caught upon the bail on the trough and was emptied. After this Wing stepped back a rod, and the cat anxious to continue the play, ran forward and submerged the bail. In ten minutes time the sportive cat had filled the wooden trough with pure water, and Wing had not taken his hands from his pockets.

Since that time Wing has drawn no water and will not permit his guests to do so. Some of them offered him $25 for the accomplished cat before they came away but Wing laughed at them. He says that an animal which can keep the house supplied with fresh poultry the year around and draw all the water for his stock and boarders is as good as a hired man.

Do Stars Explode?

The appearance of a new star in the constellation of Perseus, and its rapid expansion into a nebula, which has been going on for some time past, has revived among astronomers the theory that some nebulae may be formed by explosion. About 170, Prof. Bickerton, of Canterbury college, New Zealand, showed that, if two stars should graze one another, the abraded parts, if relatively small, would have so high a temperature that they would at once become nebulous, and that the nebula so formed would, under certain conditions, continue to expand until dissipated in space. The present expanding nebula has been growing at the extraordinary rate of several thousand miles a second, and is, in many ways, one of the greatest celestial wonders of the times.—Success.

as well as bookkeeping. In this country women seem to take a second place. There are no female Liptons, Harrods or Besses, while even linendrapers, shops are generally managed and controlled by men. Our business capacity is certainly not sufficiently developed.

It is further asserted that no well-kept hotel or club is managed by a woman, which seems on the face of it a paradox, for surely woman is the born housekeeper, and hotel-keeping is only a home on a large scale.

I fear the accusation is true. WOMEN ARE TOO FOND OF PETTY ECONOMIES, THEY CANNOT GRASP THINGS AS A WHOLE. They scrape and cheese-pare, lose good servants for the sake of a pound or two's wages, and buy cheap provisions with the idea of economy.

TRUE ECONOMY IS TO BUY THE BEST OF EVERYTHING AND GET THE BEST VALUE FOR YOUR MONEY.

In English hotels the most curiously antiquated prejudices still survive. For instance, in the heat of summer, when provisions are as cheap as possible, fresh fruit and vegetables rarely appear on the coffee-room table. I have seen, on a sweltering day in July, when strawberries were being positively given away, dried prunes served up as the stewed fruit for dinner. Such foolish economies and short-sightedness send people abroad, where dessert is always offered, and salads and nice vegetables are a sine qua non. Women might study these matters with advantage, and thus learn to be good managers of hotels. As it is, the men step in everywhere and USURP ALL THE PURELY FEMININE EMPLOYMENTS, as dressmakers, hairdressers, cooks and managers of ladies' clubs.

HYPNOTISM THAT FAILED.

The Scheming Operator Got Too Near His Subject and Something Happened.

"I have come," said the clever young hypnotist, making two or three mysterious passes with his hands and looking straight into the old man's eyes, relates the Chicago Record-Herald, "to ask you for your daughter. We love each other very dearly—look out, there is a horsey buzzing near your left ear!—and we want your blessing. I am fully prepared to take care of a family—you don't remember your name, do you?—and the sweet one who is so near and dear to you will be perfectly safe in my keeping. Of course you would not think of raising an objection that might make her unhappy all the rest of her life, would you? Yes, it is very kind of you to give—oh, poor old donkey, have you eaten all the nice fresh grass there? Come, I will lead you to another spot where it is longer and greener, and we will—

"All right, all right," said the office boy, snatching his thumb and finger close to the clever young hypnotist's ear. "Wake up! It's all over."

Where am I?" the clever young hypnotist asked.

"Out in the alley. I guess the donkey didn't like that last grass. He kicked."

DRIVEN TO DESPERATION.

Seaside Maiden Gives Up Everything, Including Her Love for Her Lover.

The maiden was suffering with seasickness. In fact, she was, "at the time when the incident of this story opened," a veritable mal de mermaid. Her lover, whose heart ached at her most unromantic gaspings over the rail and her agitated and strenuous effort to "amp the hole in the bottom of the sea," approached her tenderly, relates the Los Angeles Herald.

"It is too bad," he said, idiotically. "Is—is it?" she asked, satirically, as she again made Pelee-old demonstrations.

"Too bad you had to give up," he continued, with the same beautiful intelligence that characterizes all persons who try to render first aid to the seasick.

"Yes," she said, with exasperated savagery, as she wiped the tears from her reddening lids. "I have given up everything but my love for you; and now—she made a wild reach for the rail once more, and after a few moments, she completed her sentence—"there, that's gone, too."

But they made up again when she was better.

Why It Was All Right.—"You needn't be at all afraid to speak to papa, George. I am sure he will be all right." "What makes you think so?" "He asked me last night what your business is, and when I said you were a retired coal-dealer he smiled and said he guessed that settled it."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Over Thirty Years
The Kind You Have Always Bought

THE CASTORIA COMPANY, 27 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

EVERY CHILD BORN INTO THE WORLD with an inherited tendency to distressing, disfiguring humours of the skin, scalp, and blood, becomes an object of the most tender solicitude, not only because of its suffering but because of the dreadful fear that the disfiguration is to be lifelong and mar its future happiness and prosperity. Hence it becomes the duty of mothers of such afflicted children to acquaint themselves with the best, the purest, and most effective treatment available, viz., THE CUTICURA TREATMENT.

Warm baths with CUTICURA SOAP, to cleanse the skin of crusts and scales and soften the thickened cuticle, gentle anointings with CUTICURA OINTMENT, to instantly allay itching, irritation, and inflammation, and soothe and heal, are all that can be desired for the alleviation of the suffering of skintormented infants and children and the comfort of worn-out, worried mothers. A single set is often sufficient to cure when the best physicians fail.

Sold throughout the world. British Depot: 27-28, Charterhouse St., London. French Depot: 5 Rue de la Paix, Paris. Australian Depot: 21, Town & Co., Sydney. Porters: Dado and Cham, Corp., Sole Props.

"One reason why boys bring home so little game is because they use loose paper for wadding. Try HAZARD BLACK & HAZARD CUN POWDER, properly loaded, and you will do better shooting than ever before."

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER

Cured by Pe-ru-na of Systemic Catarrh.

An Interesting Letter From Mrs. M. K. Bousch, of Richmond, and Her Little Daughter, Pearl.

Mrs. M. K. Bousch, Richmond, Va., writes:

"I had catarrh all through my system for two years and could get no relief. I was advised to try Peruna, and I have taken five bottles of it and am well and better now than I have been for years. I can advise any one who has catarrh of any part of the body to take Peruna. My little girl, who is eleven years old had catarrh, but was cured by Peruna. Before I began to take Peruna I was sick all the time, but now I am entirely cured and all praise is due Peruna."—Mrs. M. K. Bousch.

Miss Pearl Bousch, writes: "When I was a baby I contracted catarrh, and was doctored by several good physicians, but none did me any good. My mother was taking Peruna at the time and gave some of it to me, and I soon began to improve, and am now well and fat as a little pig. I am twelve years old. The doctors told mother I had the consumption, but it was only catarrh."—Miss Pearl Bousch.

It is no longer a question as to whether Peruna can be relied on to cure all such cases. During the many years in which Peruna has been put to test in all forms and stages of acute and chronic catarrh no one year has put this remedy to greater test than the past year.

Peruna is the acknowledged catarrh remedy of the age. Dr. Hartman, the compounder of Peruna, has written a book on the phases of catarrh peculiar to women, entitled, "Health and Beauty." It will be sent free to any address by The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.
